YESTERDAY'S RESULTS

J. A. C. 3, P. A. C. 2.

It was a stormy seventh inning that decided a fast game between the Stars and Portuguese yesterday, in favor of the former club. Umpire Ralph was the center of the commotion, and for awhile it looked as though he would be eaten alive by angry players, for both teams were sore at a decision at the plate. The score stood 3 to 1 in favor of the Stars, and La Mere, first up, sent an easy one to Joy, who tossed him out. Flizer drew the only pass which Barney issued, but Zamiska struck out, making it two down. Dick Joseph put a hard grounded right into the box, and although Joy retrieved it he was off his balance and threw wild to first. Flizer going to third and Joseph to second. Joy heaved a wild one to the batter, Flizer scoring. Then came the fireworks. The next pitched ball got by Schuman and Joseph started to steal the plate. Joy dashed in while Schuman was retrieving the latter's throw, making a dive for Joseph as the latter slid in. It looked through the dust swirl as though Barney had made the putout, but Umpire Ralph gave the accepted signal for safe, by spreading out his hands palm down. Barney jumped up with a roar of protest, and half the Star team rallied to his aid. Before the converging onslaught, Ralph waved his hands, and yelled that the man was out, claiming that he had given that decision originally. He may have done so, but he certainly gave the safe signal. Both Sides Sore.

It was the Portuguese' turn to howl when the decision was given and they did so, loudly and long. For awhile they refused to go on the field, but finally decided to play it out. In the ninth the P. A. C. had another good chance to score. Ornelis got one of the two hits which Barney allowed during the entire game, but was out on the fielder's choice, which gave McCarthy life. La Mere lined a fine raking fly to center, which Johnny Nascimento scampered under, and then let get through his

YACHT GLADYS WINS THE CUP

With six yachts crossing the starting line off buoy No. 2 almost together, and making a close race of it all the way to the first stake boat off Diamond Head, yesterday's race for the Hawaii challenge cup was one of the prettiest sailing contests from the spectators' standpoint pulled off in local waters for some time. The sloop Gladys finished first on her time allowance, although the yawl Mollilou actually crossed the line in front, after having headed her rivals all the way.

The Gladys, Hawaii L. Helene, Charlotte C. Mollilou and Kamehameha finished in the order named with their handicaps. It was the first appearance of the Hawaii L. for several years, and the good showing made was a source of gratification not only to her skipper, but to all the yachtsmen, who were more than glad to welcome her back into the fold.

The course was from the spar buoy to Diamond Head, round a stake boat and to Pearl Harbor, round the can buoy and back to the starting line off the harbor. The Mollilou drew into the lead almost at once, and rounded the Diamond Head marker well in the lead, with the Gladys second. The Mollilou increased her lead, and came rounding down on the finish line in fine style, but it was apparent to the watchers that she didn't have the lead necessary to overcome the handicap.

The order in which the yachts placed at the finish and handicaps are as follows:

Gladys—Finished, 1:55:50; handicap, 24 min. 3 sec.; elapsed time, 3 hr. 55 min. 53 sec.

Hawaii L.—Finished, 2:09:56; handicap, 37 min. 18 sec.; elapsed time, 4 hr. 9 min. 56 sec.

Helene—Finished, 2:15:20; handicap, 37 min. 18 sec.; elapsed time, 4 hr. 15 min. 20 sec.

Charlotte C.—Finished, 2:0:10; handicap, 17 min. 30 sec.; elapsed time, 4 hr. 10 min.

Mollilou—Finished, 1:44; handicap, 33 sec.; elapsed time, 3 hr. 48 min.

Kamehameha—Finished, 2:09:05; handicap, 33 sec.; elapsed time, 4 hr. 9 min. 5 sec.

hands. Mc Carthy, racing to second, saw what he thought was the catch and started back. Before he could be shouted on the right track again the ball had been pegged to second and he was forced. Flizer popped to Vinnie, and the game was over.

First Game Slow. The opener between the J. A. C. and Asahis was a sad affair, which was won by the former, 8 to 1. The winners put three men across in the first, one in the second, and two in the third, and so tied up the game that the Asahis never had a chance to overcome the long lead.

The Asahis were right out of their stride, and their usual snappy infield work was conspicuous by its absence. They booted the ball around the diamond, and couldn't stick when a safe hit would have meant a run.

YACHTING PARTY ON
HAWAII HAS A THRILL

With observation of the yacht race as the primary excuse for a pleasant day on the water, Commodore Warren D. Wood of the South Coast Yacht Club was the host aboard the Hawaii, which had been put at his disposal for the day. Miss Priscilla Elliott, daughter of Captain Elliott of the cruiser Maryland, helped to get together a jolly crowd of congenial spirits, and besides seeing that everyone had enough in the refreshment line, found time to handle the yacht herself a good part of the time.

The racing yachts were followed to Diamond Head and then to Pearl Harbor, where the Hawaii anchored off the clubhouse for an hour or so. Entering the Honolulu channel the party was treated to a real deep-sea thrill, when the Hawaii went aground off the breakwater and hung balanced on a rock until Capt. Miller's launch and one from Young Bros. came to the rescue. The yacht luckily sustained no damage.

Those who made the trip were Lieut. and Mrs. Ross Kingsbury, Lieut. and Mrs. Gerald Johnson, Miss Rockwell, Miss North, Miss Elliott, Miss Dorothy Wood, Mr. Skinner, Mr. Thompson, Mr. George McDowney, Mr. Redington, Mr. Rockwell, Lieut. Blair and the host, Commodore Wood.

STEAMER BREAKS RECORD
ON VICTORIA-TACOMA RUN

VANCOUVER, B. C., Aug. 12.—Breaking all records for the Canadian Pacific railway coastwise steamers and wrestling the blue ribbon from the Princess Victoria, which has worn it along her sides ever since 1903, the steamer Princess Charlotte made Saturday the phenomenal run of four hours and twenty-four minutes between Victoria and Tacoma when she was called into service to carry an excursion party to Tacoma. She beat the Princess Victoria's time by twenty minutes, carrying 1478 passengers.

BALL GAME NETS GOOD SUM

The collection taken up at the ball game between the University Club and the Schofield Barracks officers Saturday last, totaled $225.90. Of this sum half goes to the Duke Kahanamoku fund, and half to the Army Relief Society.

ONE MAJOR LEAGUE STAR
WHOSE LIGHT IS UNDIMMED

Jimmie Callahan of the Chicago White Sox is playing better ball than ever this year. He is covering more ground than ever in the outfield, and is still the idol of the left bleacher fans at the South Side park. Callahan is also hitting the ball hard and often.

DIAMOND NEVER DIES OF THE UNIVERSITY CLUB TAKE FAST
BALL GAME FROM OFFICERS

University Club 9, Army Officers 5. The difference between a real sportsman and a cheap sport usually lies in the fact that the former, if he is disappointed at losing, conceals his disappointment from the first, and soon forgets it in the satisfaction that comes with having given the best that was in him to win fairly.

"Well, we had a fine game, anyway. If they give us another chance we'll try to reverse the result," said Major Smith, manager of the army officers' team, a minute after the nerve-racking ninth inning that lost the game for the soldiers, was over.

"He touched me all right, I felt the ball," said Lieutenant Hoffman, who, had he been called safe instead of out on a very close decision at the plate, would have come across with the tying run.

And so with all the other members of the losing team. The game was a sporting proposition from the first, and when the last man was out in the ninth inning, it was over. No post mortems, or excuses.

The real feature of the game was that it produced real baseball. Most of the fans and families who trooped to Athletic Park Saturday afternoon to see the University Club members go up against the officers from Schofield, expected a sort of travesty on the national game, with the score somewhere in the twenties. Instead, they saw a very fair sample of base ball. Of course neither team played with the dash and confidence that comes with constant practice, but one and all showed that they had at one time been ball players, and that they were far from ready for the shelf.

Hit Hard at First. The officers lost the game in the first two innings, when four doubles off Rose, coupled with an error and a passed ball, netted four runs. This lead was too much to overcome, although in the fourth it looked as though the Army had broken through three runs coming across the plate. After that each team got single runs in two innings, and the soldiers had an "almost nearly" in the ninth, that made the finish one solid bunch of excitement.

Billy Hoogs, the first man to step up to the plate, had the distinction of being sent to the bench by a great little combination in restraint of free passes—Governor Frow and Prince Kuhio. Three strikes in rapid succession, which kept Catcher Jones on the dead run to retrieve, retired Mr. Hoogs before he could say Jack Robinson, should he have cared to call on the gentleman.

"What a wonderful steam roller that pair would make if they could only work together," sighed one regretful politician. "When it comes to benching delegates, they make the Republican National Committee look cheap."

Olympic Parade Outdone. The game really started before ball was thrown. After an earnest conference between Major Smith and Judge Wilder, managers for the Army and Club teams respectively, in which it was agreed that no biding in the clubhouse would be tolerated, and that the teams should break at the order of the referees, the major waved out the first infantry band, which headed the Schofield players on a march around the field.

Then the Royal Hawaiian band took the diamond, and amid a roar of applause, the University players filed out of the dressing rooms, each one greeted with a huge affair representing a setting hen. At least, that's what the headgear looked like, although some of the more imaginative insisted that the birds were triumphant crowing roosters. The cluemen also made the round of the field, marshaled by Judge Wilder, in his famous high-peaked straw chapeau.

Then Governor Frow and Prince Cupid went through their little stunt, and the game was on. Four Doubles. Lieutenant Rose, displaying a somewhat nervous smile, entered the box and sent a few over to Lieutenant Hanson at the receiving end. The latter had the experience of a place on the West Front team to draw on, and was cool as a cucumber throughout the game. Billy Hoogs came up again and connected for a high one to left, which went right over Hank's head, leaving a hole for a double. Castle's hot hand took a rasty pump just as it reached Major Cruikshank at short, and the runner was safe, with Hoogs roosting on third. Lowrey got another sailer, which fell in front of Hanson, and before he could retrieve the ball Hoogs was across. Nowell hit a long fly to the scoreboard, but Hoffman made a great running catch, and what's more, pegged to the plate in time to catch Lowrey, although Castle came across on the throw in. Arthur Rice fanned.

In the army's half of the first, Wells fanned, and Captain Hamilton, who took Hanson's place in left, did likewise. Hanson popped to Lowrey. The second was another bad inning for Rose. Dr. Hobdy started things with a two-bagger to right, while Watson and Jones, the next two men at bat, put up infield flies which were easy meat. Withington drew a pass, and a passed ball gave him another time, and put a slapping double to center, scoring both men. Castle fled to Millikin.

Exciting Finish. Millikin scored for the Army in the seventh, when he lined out a hit, stole second, and came home on Wells' single. In the ninth Rose's nice double brought in Groninger, who had taken first on a clean hit. One run to the bad, the Army went to bat in the last half of the ninth. Peyton hit the first ball pitched for a safety, but Hoffman's grounder to short was snapped up by Nowell and tossed to Lowrey for the force-out at second. Wells hit a hard one to left, and Hoffman took a long chance and tried to come home. The Harvard football player hung onto the ball for several seconds, after he had retrieved it, and didn't throw until Hoffman had rounded third. Jones stood over the rubber, hands stretched out to coax the ball along. It hit halfway between third and the plate, and came to the catcher on a high bound. Had Hoffman hit the dirt he could never have been touched, but he was too far out of the path to make the slide

COLLEGE PROFESSOR
LECTURES ON CURVE
BALL AND ITS EFFECT

NEW YORK, N. Y.—The "why" of a baseball curve should not longer be a mystery; at least, to the students of the Columbia University's summer school. In a lecture on "The Science of Baseball Curves," recently, Professor W. S. Franklin explained it all as follows:

"The whole secret of a curved ball lies in the relation of the pressure to the velocity and the spin that the pitcher gives it as it leaves his hand. "Daniel Bernoulli, a Swiss physician, who died in 1872, was the man who discovered the principle. He was observing a stream of water that flowed through wide pools and narrow shoals. In the pools he soon found that the pressure was very great while the velocity was almost nothing; in the shoals he said that the velocity was very swift, while the pressure had almost disappeared.

"This is the principle that governs the flight and curve of a ball. If the ball sails straight through the air with no spin, the air is pushed aside equally in all directions and the ball is directly under the control of gravity so far as its curve is concerned, and it soon falls to the ground. Whereas, if the front of the ball is given a downward spin, there is in it, in addition to the straight forcing aside of the air, a circulation motion of the air around the ball. This motion being over and then under, the ball tends to increase the speed with which the air passes beneath the ball and it retards it above the ball."

REPORT OF FAKE

George Ingle, who is scheduled to fight Eddie Madison next Saturday at Athletic Park, is a much peevy young gentleman, owing to certain statements relative to the coming mill which have been brought to his attention. George unloaded his woes on the sporting editor of the Star-Bulletin, and if appearances go for anything, his statement is strictly on the level.

"Some of the knockers have been spreading the story that my fight with Madison was going to be as big a fake as the McCarthy-Cordell fight," said Ingle. "Now, I want everyone here to know that I never dared to fake a fight as long as I have been in the boxing game. I have fought thirty-two fights and never lost one. Does that sound like faking? Also, I'm only 18 years old, and if I start faking now what will become of me in later years? I think I have a bright future, and a fake, or any suspicion of one, would throw me off, wouldn't it? I do not have to fake for money, for I have highly respectable parents, who have several times tried to get me out of the ring. I like the game too much to queer myself with any crooked deals, and if anything of the kind can be shown in my coming match with Eddie Madison, I will give my share of the purse to charity. I think fair-minded people should not spread these reports without some shadow of reason."

first and second, the side should have been retired. Alan Lowrey was over-anxious, however, and the ball got through his fingers and bounded away, both men scoring. This seemed to put Castle in the air for a minute, and he let fly a wild pitch which allowed Rose to trot in from third. Millikin ended the inning by striking out.

In the fifth Lowrey hit, but was retired on the fielder's choice that gave Nowell life. A passed ball advanced the latter to first, and he then proceeded to steal third and home in Ty Cobb style. The cluemen's final run came in the eighth, when, with one man gone, Hobdy made first on Cruikshank's juggling stunt, and Watson got free transportation. Jones was safe at first on Millikin's error, although he recovered the ball in time to throw Hobdy out at the plate. Withington's clean hit to left scored Watson, but on a snappy relay, Doak to Groninger to Hanson, Jones was also caught at the pan. This was a lightning assist, Groninger making a one-handed grab at the ball as it came in from the field, and pegging it home straight and true.

Exciting Finish. Millikin scored for the Army in the seventh, when he lined out a hit, stole second, and came home on Wells' single. In the ninth Rose's nice double brought in Groninger, who had taken first on a clean hit.

One run to the bad, the Army went to bat in the last half of the ninth. Peyton hit the first ball pitched for a safety, but Hoffman's grounder to short was snapped up by Nowell and tossed to Lowrey for the force-out at second. Wells hit a hard one to left, and Hoffman took a long chance and tried to come home. The Harvard football player hung onto the ball for several seconds, after he had retrieved it, and didn't throw until Hoffman had rounded third. Jones stood over the rubber, hands stretched out to coax the ball along. It hit halfway between third and the plate, and came to the catcher on a high bound. Had Hoffman hit the dirt he could never have been touched, but he was too far out of the path to make the slide

Army Scores Three. There was no more scoring till the fourth, when the army rooters got a chance to make a little noise. Houlihan struck out, and Hanson hit a sharp single over short. Groninger was soaked in the ribs, and got a base on a, and Cruikshank fanned. With two men on bases and two gone, Al Castle seemed to be working himself nicely out of a bad hole, and

SHARKEY AFTER BURNS:
THE JOKE OF THE YEAR

"Sailor" Tom Sharkey, once a leading heavyweight pugilist with a record of standing twenty-five rounds before Jim Jeffries and giving the then champion one of the hardest battles of his career, announces himself as a "contender for the white" heavyweight championship of the world.

Sharkey looks to gain the distinction after a long period of retirement by taking the measure of Tommy Burns, whose defeat by Jack Johnson gave the latter the world's title. Sharkey says he has been led to believe that Burns wants a return match with Johnson and expresses his own willingness to arrange a match with Burns "under any fair conditions the latter may name." He expressed confidence that if he takes "a course in strict training" he can reenter the ring and defeat Burns.

ASAHI JUNIORS
TAKE SECOND
CONTEST

The Asahis made it one and one in the Junior League play yesterday, by taking the speedy Whites down the line to the tune of 6 to 1. In spite of the one-sided score, the game was a hummer, and for two-thirds of the journey was scoreless. Then, in the sixth, the Asahis broke through for four runs, and practically clinched the game.

Only two errors were chalked up during the game, both being charged to Costa, third baseman and captain of the Whites. One was an over-throw to first, and the other an uncertain chance. Outside of these, the fielding was gilt-edged, the outfielders handling some hard ones in big league style.

Travens pitched himself out of some bad holes, but at the same time most of them were due to his own lack of control, as he allowed ten bases on balls. This wildness started the scoring in the sixth, when a pass, a base hit, a fielder's choice and Costa's wild throw to first accounted in all for four runs. In the seventh the winners put two more across, a misplay at third, a pass and Yamashiro's double turning the trick.

The Whites' lonely score came in the eighth, a base on balls, a clean steal and a safe hit contributing. An exhibition game was played between the C. A. U. and the Athletics as a curtain raiser. It went only five innings by arrangement, and was won by the former team, 5 to 1. The score:

KAPIOLANI PARK
TRACK BUSY
PLACEFast Ones That Will Take Part in Labor Day Races Are Being Worked Out

There is considerable activity at the Kapiolani Park track these days, and the trotters and gallopers that are in training for the Labor Day races are nearly all showing well. The rail birds are in evidence, too, and the work of all the likely ones is being closely watched.

Sunday found quite a large crowd out for the early work-outs, and it looked like old times to see the geese doing the merry-go-round.

Johnny Fernandez, Lizzie Moore, who will be in two races, should be heard from. She worked a half in :50 flat yesterday.

Louis Warren had both his colts perform yesterday. Oneonta and Umpqua working together for the four furlong distance. They galloped easily in better than 52, with Bennie Rollins, who will
